A CLERIC AND A BUSINESS MAN

By Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman

The morning news brought an account of the testimony of two men before the parliamentary committee which is investigating the immigration problem. The one was a cleric. The other a business man. The business man pleaded for a big-visioned policy, for the ignoring of credal and racial differences in the admission of immigrants to Canada. The cleric pleaded for a quota law, which discriminates against human beings made in the image of God. The cleric consecrated to the service of the humble Semitic carpenter of Nazareth, whom we are told consorted with publicans and sinners, urged a policy of arrogance and snobbery, a policy which if carried out would bar the Nazarene from Canada. The business man appealed for liberal, democratic, humanitarian measures. No wonder that churches are empty and that organized religion is losing its appeal.

M. M. COHEN

There are times when the death of an individual fills one with pessimism and despair, not because of the death itself, for that awaits all, but because at death we can perceive clearly the degeneration that occurs in human lives. That is why men should weep, not over the inevitable, but over beauty transformed to ugliness, and character decayed. There are other times when the death of an individual fills one with praise and thanksgiving, joy and hopefulness, when the life which has passed, in its brief pilgrimage has demonstrated the spiritual heights to which man can ascend. Such was the case with M. M. Cohen.

His death though too sudden, and though leaving its ache and pain of separation, yet should fill a community and a family with thanksgiving to God for having been enriched for many years with a personality who served well, unselfishly, and whose example will long stimulate and encourage. M. M. Cohen retired from business, and devoted all his leisure to his fellow-citizens. That he understood Judaism well is evinced by the non-sectarian character of his service. He served Jew and Christian, church and synagogue. He was interested in the vision of a nobler world, and he knew that that could only be realized through a nobler mankind. His major interests, therefore, lay with boys, the builders of the future.

To him, every boy was created in the image of God, and a community's duty was so to guard the boy that the divine image would never be blurred. M. M. Cohen became the pioneer of Jewish Boy Work in the city. He tried to create an environment of play and ideals in which the Jewish boys could develop their talents and capacities. The Boys' Clubs and the B'nai B'rith boys' camp are the result of his vision. He enlisted the interests of others, and he inaugurated for the Jewish community a constructive programme of Boy Work

During his last illness, his thoughts were for his boys and in his

DR. SCHMARYA LEVIN

Undoubtedly Dr. Schmarya Levin is the most brilliant Jewish speaker we have to-day. Indeed, the opinion has been ventured by men who had listened to the finest orators in America and Europe that Dr. Levin has very few equals among leaders in the forensic art in any language.

Dr. Levin addressed a huge mass meeting on Sunday night. Thousands had to be turned away for lack of accommodation. Toronto Jewry like the rest of Canadian Jewry, loves Schmarya Levin and will always flock to hear him. In this instance the feeling of affection is reciprocal, for Dr. Levin is known to cherish a particular fondness for Canadian Jewry.

Dr. Levin is not an orator. His voice is pleasing but he does not perform any acrobatics with it. He does not play with the effects of pauses and tonal modulations and emphatic reiterations. He does not overpower the senses with the perfumed aroma of linguistic florescence, or cause cardiac depression by letting loose sacs of sentimental carbon dioxide. He will not stoop to any of the tricks of the oratorical artizans.

Dr. Levin is a thinker. When he mounts the platform he has as his object the exposition of an idea. To him ideas are not naked shivering objects stripped of the flesh and blood of living interest. An idea is the soul of living interest. In his exposition he seeks to project the concrete richness of the situation in which his idea is the motivating force. He creates a suitable setting for his idea. The setting is vivid, colourful, vibrant with the idea. Dr. Levin has at his command all the necessary gifts and elements for the dramatization of a vital situation. His mind is trenchant. His wit is scintillating. And withal he has a leaping imagination and a glowing emotionalism. Add to these qualities the possession of a wide knowledge of life, and a broad scholarship and matchless fluency of language, and you have the conditions for artistic creation.

Dr. Levin is one of the last of the school of Zionist ideologists. Zionism has of late become associated with the economic effort in behalf of Palestine. The fact that it is a rationale of Jewish experience and an ideational justification for the Jewish struggle in a hostile environment is being completely lost sight of. Dr. Levin still makes his occasional calls and inspires his audiences to the realization that Zionism is an ideal which alone imparts significance to Jewish life. Schmarya Levin surveys the range of Jewish existence and finds in it meaning and value. He seeks to rescue the Jewish public from the morass of ignorance and indifference and awaken in them a feeling of self dignity as participants in a valuable historic process.

Dr. Levin has been a comparatively frequent visitor in Canada. He loves Canada and Canadian Jewry, even as Canadian Jews love him. He is regarded by them as their teacher and guide in Zionism and Jewish affairs. He has a stimulating vivid personality and he fascinates all those who come in contact with him.

This last visit of Dr. Levin has been a happy surprise to his local admirers and friends. It is known that Dr. Levin is anxious to spend the rest of his years in undisturbed peace in Palestine pursuing

RABBI SILVER SPEAKS ON SOCIAL SERVICE

In the spiritual significance of social service, Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, of Cleveland, indicated the greatness of that profession, speaking Wednesday, April 25, at the open session of the Canadian Conference on Social Work, before an audience that taxed the ballroom of the Mount Royal Hotel to capacity. The ideas of the address, coming in answer to many of the discussions of the conference, met with enthusiastic appreciation from the audience, who prolonged their applause several moments after the speaker had concluded. The realization that every life in "this communion of saints and sinners which we call humanity" is inviolable because it is in the image of God, and is capable of perfection, brings the delight in social service which overcomes its drabness, Rabbi Silver said. The spiritual side of social service, or in other words the work of guiding people in the development of their personalities, is one of the highest finite aims, for while religion expresses the idealism of human beings, social service as the practical right arm of religion gives its exalted ideas a local habitation and aim the speaker said. Such a conception should appeal to the elite of the youth of a country, to the spiritual and intellectual aristocrats, and so solve the problem of recruiting the finest workers the profession desires.

The earlier and partial conceptions of social service were briefly reviewed. First there was the giving of relief, which was as old as human want and as constant as human compassion. In the second place there had developed the work of prevention, as people had learned that hygiene, recreation and advice were wiser and cheaper than the practice of waiting for the wreckage of life, with its flotsam and jetsam, to come by. The third stage Rabbi Silver called the stage of adjustment. He commented first on the factors which had undermined the security of family life, and the troubles of maladjustment that had followed. Even the most normal human beings have some suffering from maladjustment, it was stated, the speaker pointing out further that the tempo of modern life, with other special factors, had aggravated the situation seriously in recent times. The increase of mental and nervous disorders was indicated in the fact that in the states of New York and Massachusetts there was, in hospitals for nervous or mental treatment, one patient for every 275 of the population. The family was described by Rabbi Silver as the conserving agency in society. In helping every member of the family to find his full self-expression, at the same time strengthening the ties of this primary institution, the speaker saw the highest sort of charity. Dr. Helen R. Y. Reid presided.

RITUAL BLOOD ACCUSATION IN KOVNO

The Lithuanian police succeeded in preventing a riot and protecting the Jews of Kovno through quick and decisive action. An elderly Christian woman was found dead and rumours immediately spread that she was killed by Jews for the purpose of using her blood for the Passover celebration. The charge was brought against a demented Jew that he had performed the murder and he was immediately placed under arrest. It was soon established that the woman had died a natural death and the excited mobs that had gathered in the Jewish quarter, ready to begin excesses against Jews, were dispersed by the police.

Anshe Sholom Congregation, Hamilton. Dr. A. Feldman, Rabbi.

Anshe Sholom Synagogue choir, under the direction of Miss Sara Mintz, gave a programme of ancient and modern music as used in the services of Judaism. Rabbi A. A. Feldman, Ph.D., gave a resume of the character and use of music among the Hebrew people, emphasizing the fact that while other nations sang of war and revenge, of achievement, of love, of beauty, the ancient Hebrews sang only to the Lord. Some of the music by the choir included genuine and original chants, songs and melodies, sung by the Levites in the temple at Jerusalem and by the Jews in their synagogues for 2,500 years. A few of these had crept into use in the early Christian church and had strengthened the hearts of many of those who sought refuge in the catacombs, holding them steadfast to die for their faith in the arena at Rome. Miss Marion Harvey, the organist of the synagogue, gave two piano solos and Miss Vera Rymal, violinist, played. A bouquet of roses was presented to Miss Rymal. Sidney Cohen recited. Among the choir numbers sung were The Lord is My Strength, Psalm 92; Shma Yistroel, Borchu (traditional); Veshomru (traditional and modern); Mi Chomocho (traditional and modern); Va Yedabeer Mosche (modern), Miss Mintz singing the contralto solo; anthem, To My Complaint, solos Misses Guzner and Mintz; Sing Alood, Psalm 100, Miss Harris and Mrs. Silverman taking the duet and solos; Adonoi Melech, Veal Kulom, Tickun; Bow Down Thine Ear (solo, Miss Blumenthal; May the Words, Eitz Chayim; Ein Kehoheinu, Lecho Adonoi, Ha. The choir's personnel included: Sopranos, Selina Harris, Norma Guzner, Lilian Blumenthal, Mary Levy; second soprano, Annie Cohen; altos, Lenore Rubens, Zelda Frank, Mrs. Moe Silverman, Miss Morris and Miss Mintz; tenor, Sidney Rubens; bass, Julius Lyons.

AN EXCEPTION TO A RULE OF ETIQUETTE

Mr. and Mrs. Zelitsch and their daughter, Dorothy, were having lunch together in the dining room of their beautiful mansion.

Casually the daughter remarked, "By the way, mother, I was married this morning."

In the same manner, but in a slightly sterner tone of voice, the mother replied, "Very well, but you could have waited to tell me until after the butler had gone out."

"But, mother, you don't understand, I married the butler."

"MAZOL TOV MR. COHEN"

Lyon Cohen is well known throughout Canada as an untiring communal worker; especially in the city of Montreal Mr. Cohen gave much of himself and his means to bring into existence many splendid Jewish institutions. The community thus has every reason to rejoice with Mr. Cohen on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday. We congratulate him and extend to him the traditional salutation—Ad Meoh V'esrim Shana.

JOHN HAYNES HOLMES

Holmes is one of the outstanding Christian preachers. In the community church the other day he preached on the theme, "Where Judaism is Superior to Christianity." He pointed out that Judaism is superior to Christianity because of the following:

1. Judaism is superior because of its emphasis on the moral law rather than theology.
2. Judaism stresses life in this world rather than other worldliness.
3. Judaism emphasizes society as contrasted with the characteristic Christian emphasis upon the individual.

It certainly takes courage on the part of a Christian minister to speak along the above lines. Such a declaration, such a sermon could never have been preached a generation ago and would not be spoken in many localities of this world even at the present hour. Such a pronouncement is only possible because of the wonderful revelations of science and the study of comparative religion. Because, after due investigation, we discover sublimities and beauty, yea, many truths, in all religions.

EDUCATION VS. CHARITY

Jewish Montreal annually raises huge sums for Federation and Palestine. Both of these "causes" are worthy—no one will dare deny. As Jews we are in duty bound to take care of our poor. As members of the Household of Israel we must not detach ourselves from the soul and even the soil of Palestine. But a Jewish community which relies solely upon charity and makes charity the alpha and omega of its life must find itself in a precarious state. For above everything else in Jewish life comes Torah—Jewish education. And history has proven that wherever and whenever a Jewish community failed to kindle the lamps of learning, that community perished. And having this historic fact in mind we regret that in all these years of Jewish community life in Montreal no Hebrew educational system has been brought into existence. The Talmud-Torahs at the present hour in the city are inadequate for modern Hebrew training. It seems to us that concentrated effort ought to be made to heighten the standard of Jewish education in the city. Why can't Federation turn one year from mere elementary philanthropy and do a little preventative social service? Hebrew training will prevent a Jewish youth from leading a life of low standards. Hebrew ethical training will direct the Jewish youths to lead lives of purity and goodness. Many Jewish lads in the east and north sections of Montreal are spiritually hungry. They yearn for the bread of the spirit. Those who are blessed materially and spiritually must share it with the less fortunate of our brethren. Let us Federate to Educate. This, too, is philanthropy, and in Judaism the highest expression of charity. For, as the ancients formulated it, "Talmud Torah K'neged Kulom."

TEMPLE EMANU-EL BROTHERHOOD

Last Tuesday the Men's Club of Emanu-El held its closing meeting for the season. The evening was a most propitious occasion on which one could take a backward glance over the road which the Brotherhood idea has travelled. No longer are men indifferent to the synagogue. The Brotherhood works within and for the synagogue idea. And in this respect Reform Judaism merits praise for having blazed a trail in bringing back the men to the spiritual heritage of Israel, namely, the synagogue. And indeed it is interesting to note that even Orthodox and Conservative Congregations are beginning to appreciate the reforms of Reform Judaism. Not only do these congregations bring into existence Sisterhoods for which, too, the Liberal movement in Judaism is responsible, but they even find it necessary to establish "Men's Clubs." We are happy to know that Liberal Judaism has brought many blessings along the line of organization on

BRADING BREWERIES EXPANDING

A Canadian brewery which is an interesting exhibit of modern efficiency in both design and equipment has just been completed in the City of Ottawa. It is an extension to the previous plant of The Brading Breweries, Limited, and combines all the most up-to-date ideas in brewery construction.

The building itself has been designed so that the most sanitary conditions can be easily maintained. The walls are lined with pressed cork and the ceilings have a layer of granulated cork one foot deep, in order to prevent outside summer heat from affecting interior temperature. A new type of ventilation system has been installed so as to keep a current of fresh air constantly circulating.

New refrigeration equipment has added 3,000 feet of freezing coils and has increased the plant's ice-making capacity to 120,000 pounds per day. Storage tanks of British Columbia fir, each 14 feet high and 11½ feet in diameter, have increased storage facilities to provide for 200,000 gallons of ale, or over two and a half million pints, at one time.

One of the most interesting new pieces of machinery is an automatic bottle labelling machine, with a capacity of 120 bottles per minute, or 57,600 daily.

FREIMAN PREFERRED STOCK IS VERY ATTRACTIVE INVESTMENT

Business Has Never Had an Unprofitable Year and Enjoys Exceptionally Able Management — Dividends Earned 2.66 Times—Expansion of Business is Contemplated

The 6 per cent. convertible cumulative preferred stock of A. J. Freiman, Limited, Ottawa, which is being offered to investors by McLeod, Young, Weir & Co., Limited, is having a ready reception. Attractiveness is lent to the stock by the conversion privilege which permits shareholders to convert each share into three shares of common stock for the first 2,500 preferred shares converted, into two and one-half shares of common stock for the next 5,000 shares converted and into two shares of common stock for the remaining preferred shares converted. Mr. A. J. Freiman, who continues to control and manage the business, is well known for his exceptional business ability, and it is believed that the growth of the business under his able management will, in the course of a few years, make the conversion privilege valuable.

The company owns and operates the largest departmental store in Ontario east of Toronto and has never had an unprofitable year since it was established in 1900. Sales last year were over $3,000,000. Both sales and earnings have shown steady and consistent increases from year to year. For the year ended January 31, last, net earnings, after interest, depreciation and income taxes, were 2.66 times the amount required to pay dividends on the preferred stock. Net tangible assets back of each $100 preferred share amount to $197. From the proceeds of the present financing a chain of order-taking depots will be opened up throughout the rich Ottawa Valley and other tributary territory which has not yet been exploited.

The stock is offered at 100 and accrued dividend from April 1, last, whilst a bonus of one-half a share of common stock is given with every share of preferred purchased. The sound character of the business, its able management and the conversion and common stock bonus features in connection with the offering make the preferred shares a very desirable investment.

AN INNOCENT MURDERESS

A young American-born, Jewish girl, who is a practicing attorney in New York, recently delivered a lecture on the need for abolishing capital punishment. The group before whom this talk was given is composed of Jewish women most of whom were born in Eastern Europe. Realizing this the speaker, when she had completed her dissertation, said in Yiddish, "If there are any questions, I shall be glad to answer them in Yiddish."

Whereupon a woman stood up and asked, "Miss, since you are opposed to killing, why do you murder the Yiddish language?"

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the noted rare book specialist, added new laurels to his fame by the purchase in London last week at a book auction of the original manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland," by Lewis Carroll, for which he paid £15,400 ($75,259). Dr. Rosenbach also paid £10,500 ($52,500) at auction for the Ward diary, dated 1629 to 1681. The diary was kept by the Vicar of Stratford-on-Avon and is valuable for its references to Shakespeare.

The recent resignation of Dr. Stephen Wise from the Administrative and Executive Committee of the Zionist Organization of America has proved to be a far-reaching secession, and when he said in explanation that his convictions were shared by a multitude of Jews at home and abroad, he must have been right considering the present upheaval. Rabbi Wise's resignation came as a surprise (having been tendered without discussion) and was accepted with regret, the air charged with "faithfully yours" and other polite exchanges. A few days later Dr. Wise gave his reasons. "My resignation," he said in part, "is meant to be an act of vigorous and unmistakable dissent from the dominant methods of Zionist leadership and work. It is designed to be an unequivocal protest against the present regime in Zionist affairs which I hold to be menacing to the Zionist cause and gravely hurtful to the Jewish morale. . . . One of the primary causes of the unhappy state of affairs in Palestine many of us believe to be due not to the ill-will of the British Government but to the Zionist failure to press home the needs and rightful demands of the Jewish people. The lack of a firm and courageous insistence on Jewish rights in Palestine is but a part of a general policy in and out of Palestine which, to the integrity of Zionist aims and Zionist endeavour, spells not compromise but surrender."

At its closing session Sunday, April 22, the National Board of Hadassah passed a vote of "no confidence" in the present administration of the Zionist Organization of America, thus lining up with the opposition against the Lipsky administration. There were 130 members of the Hadassah leadership present in this special executive session from which press representatives were barred. It is understood that Hadassah delegates to the forthcoming Zionist convention will support a plan to elect a committee of seven to administrate the affairs of the Zionist Organization instead of choosing a president and committee of twenty-seven. The committee would elect a leader from itself under the plan. The National Board in a resolution re-affirmed its support of the Jewish Agency and the World Zionist Organization. Mrs. Lina Strauss, wife of Nathan Strauss, appeared before the Board and wished Hadassah Godspeed in its efforts to aid the movement to better Zionist conditions in this country. A week or so before this Mr. Strauss had issued a statement in which he said: "That man is not my friend who is against Dr. Weizmann and Louis Lipsky, president of the Zionist Organization of America." Mrs. Strauss said that she and her husband "had but recently ascertained that the affairs of the Zionist Organization of America have been administered in a manner not conducive to the interest of the cause."

At present writing news is yet to be heard from the Zionist Opposition Conference held in Washington, Sunday, April 29, for the purpose of reorganizing the Zionist Organization of America. Among the conveners were Judge Julian Mack, Professor Felix Frankfurter, A. H. Fromenson and others who have held positions in the Zionist Organization or have been connected with the cause for years. While this was being planned Louis Lipsky was evidently writing an editorial for the "New Palestine," which appeared Friday, April 27. It is a great pity most of the editorial can not be given here for the unconscious humour in it would be hard to duplicate except as expressed by some other man mad at some other bunch of women.

In this editorial Lipsky claims that the action of the Hadassah National Board is unconstitutional; that the campaign against the administration is based upon partisan motives and hatreds in a desire to secure vindication for those defeated in 1921; that it is an attack upon the entire Weizmann regime. His editorial gives details of the famous Sunday session of the Hadassah National Board that are most laughable considering that on one side is Louis Lipsky, tyrannical czar of the Zionist Organization, and on the other side 130 women who wouldn't let him come to their meeting and talk. He tells how he considered that the interests of the movement required his presence and how his letter to the National Board of Hadassah elicited the response that it would be advisable for the Administrative Committee not to be present. The Administrative Committee wrote again requesting the right to be present through a sub-committee, Lipsky as a member. No reply. Then later came a telephone call saying that the sub-committee couldn't come to the party but that Lipsky himself could come to Sunday morning and afternoon sessions provided he would make a statement only after the discussion had come to an end. This conditional invitation followed a session in which Mrs. Irma Lindheim, president of Hadassah, had talked for an hour and a half levelling general accusations against the President of the Zionist Organization of America, that is to say, Lipsky. He finally went to the meeting and had his say but, judging from the entire affair, the women appear to have tied him up in a sack and sold him and he knows it and is in a cold fury.

It is high time something exciting happened to the Zionist Organization of America. It has become a soul-less machine, living just for to-day, dedicated to job-holding and raising money and fighting and bickering. It has failed to interest new men and new money so consistently that the real wealth in America which might be called out for the Zionist cause has not been touched. Its store of idealism is not being renewed and the Organization is therefore in the position of a man eating up his capital. Its heartless, unscrupulous, professional Zionists have doubtless given Dr. Weizmann bad advice about conditions in American Judaism and helped him to form wrong impressions. Non-Zionists, as well as Zionists who have come under the spell of Weizmann's magnetic personality, will shrink from seeing him hurt as he must be by the mess that is being fomented now. When he was in Toronto lately and said, with his hand over his heart, "I, Weizmann, head of the World Zionist Organization, am a millionaire in zoras," he was about to become a multi-millionaire. As far as Lipsky is concerned personally there will be few deep, genuine regrets at seeing him stew in his own juice. The children play a game that Lipsky knows. While some one plays the piano the children walk around chairs, one less chair than there are children. When the music stops each child makes for a chair but of course one is always left out. Oddly enough, it is called "Going to Jerusalem." Who is going to be left out this time? f.f.c.

MAIL BOX

Cincinnati, O., April 17, 1928.

Editor, CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW,—

I was interested to read Mr. A. Earl Fauman's letter in your issue of the 13th inst., with regard to fraternities, and his scathing denunciation of f.f.c. Poor f.f.c.—to have an "inferiority complex and petty jealousy," to show "such vicious narrow-mindedness." But I presume f.f.c. is consoled with the knowledge that the vagaries of journalistic life do not permit bouquets all the time. I doubt very much whether Mr. A. Earl Fauman would go so far as to label me with the same epithets. I am a bona fide member of a national Jewish fraternity that boasts of chapters throughout the United States. At the University of Cincinnati there are at least five undergraduate Jewish fraternities, all of whom have an equal rating scholastically, socially and morally. Keeping this in mind, then my defence of f.f.c.—or rather, refutation of Mr. A. Earl Fauman—cannot be very well prompted by feelings of petty jealousy or inferiority complex.

Mr. A. Earl Fauman has very aptly [illegible] movement has ever been started that didn't have "a beautiful idea of life-long brotherhood?" But he neglected to mention that the original Jewish fraternity has now blossomed forth into a distinctly aristocratic and social unit, with an initiation fee that is much beyond the means of the average college student. Occasionally this organization offers an award to the person who has done the most for Judaism—something after the idea of the Nobel Peace Prize. Outside of this feeble attempt to promote an interest in Jewish life, I have not heard of a fraternity offering prizes or scholarships to deserving Jewish youths. There has been much theorizing, but very little action.

"In no good fraternity is a worthwhile man excluded just because his financial condition does not come up to standard." How many decent youths are walking the campus of the University of Toronto, as proficient in scholarship as any fraternity man—even as good-looking and as good a dresser—but who are not members of a fraternity because they cannot afford the initiation fee? And fraternity men are life-long brothers of each other, giving unstintingly of their time to lift their more unworthy brethren out of the mire of poor scholarship. Therefore, all fraternity men must neces[illegible] students. Once in a long while a fraternity man wins a scholarship. But this same person has most likely been asked to join because of his promising capabilities. That is the source of the fraternity's boast that it possesses scholars.

I am shocked to read that the average non-fraternity man is just so because his evil qualities far overbalance his good ones. It sounds too much like patting oneself on the back. No fair-minded person will believe such a statement. "There are five or six qualities which are looked for in a man by a fraternity and not one of these can be called 'snobbish'." Study some psychology, Mr. Fauman, and learn that the person who possesses that many good qualities is not a man, but a god.

Fraternities have their good points—f.f.c. to the contrary. They are admirably suited for the out-of-town man who is lost in his new environment and welcomes overtures from any sort of organization to join it. They fill the fraternity houses and thus furnish the foundation for fraternity life. It is only natural that out of a heterogeneous mass of persons, various cliques should be formed. And it is only natural that one group should think itself better than the other. And if this same group has more wealthy members and more coon coats, why shouldn't this feeling be enhanced? Just because a fraternity as a whole shows poor scholarship, there is no justification for condemning them all. Non-fraternity men likewise fail to come up to the standard. Universities condone such organizations on their campus because it is much easier to get at them. It is always possible to threaten to expel them if their scholarship declines. And what fraternity wants to have its house taken away, its dances forbidden, and loss of respect from its contemporaries?

Summarizing the above, it will be seen that I am not against the fraternity. I have formed some lasting friendships from mine, and the dances I attend serve to break the monotony of classes. The frater who claims that he is not socially superior to the non-fraternity man—is not a snob—is merely deluding himself to the extent that he reaps the fruits of the attitude of the men who have preceded him and does nothing to counteract it. A fraternity is to be condemned for its snobbish point of view. But you shouldn't be too harsh, f.f.c., it's just the modern generation.

Thanking you, I am,

Yours very sincerely,

PERRY E. NUSSBAUM.

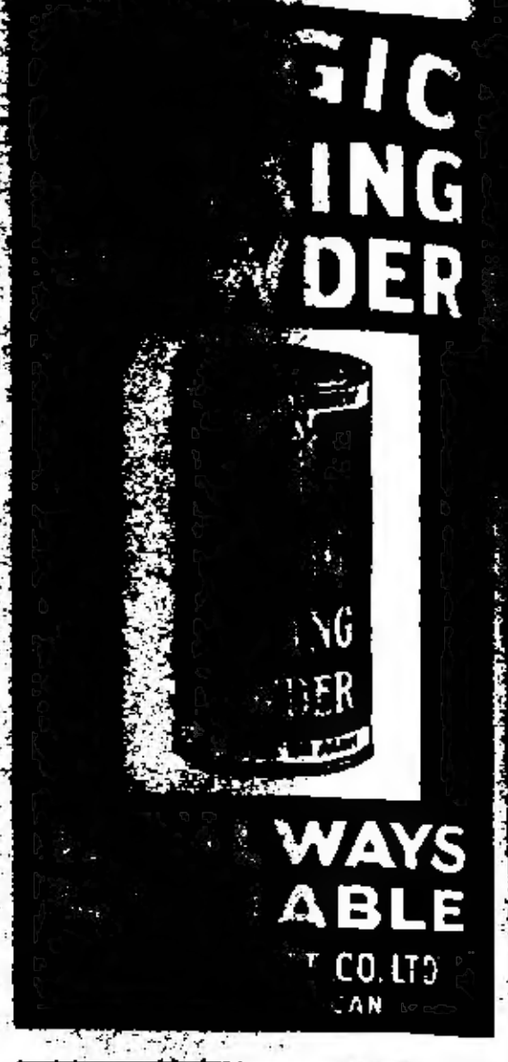
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW,—

The Hebrew patients in this Sanitarium would appreciate your putting a few words for us in your magazine. We would like to express our sincerest thanks for the good work done for us by the Hebrew Sanitarium Club which looks after all the tubercular patients from the City of Toronto.

This society has supplied us with one complete Hebrew Kosher meal every day—which is appreciated by all the patients, who are greatly benefited. The cooking is all done by one woman in her own kitchen. This necessarily entails a large expense, and we would appreciate your bringing to the attention of your readers the necessity of this society securing sufficient funds to carry on this good work.

The chairman of this society is Mrs. Mehr, 121 Lyndhurst Avenue, phone



Hillcrest 8088, Toronto, Ont., who would be pleased to receive any contributions which may be forwarded. I can assure you that every penny contributed goes to the benefit of the Hebrew patients here, the society paying their own expenses. The family of the late Mr. M. M. Cohen publicly informed their friends that they did not desire any flowers to be sent in his memory. They felt that that would be out of keeping with Mr. Cohen's wishes.

Inasmuch as his life was wrapped up in the work of the Boys' Clubs, I feel that it would be appropriate if the moneys that might have been spent for flowers, were instead used to purchase something necessary for the activities of Jewish boys' work in Toronto.

I have therefore instituted a floral fund to which anyone who wishes can send their floral contribution in memory of Mr. M. M. Cohen. I shall acknowledge contributions to the family and will see to it that the Boys' Club does something worth while with them. Cheques may be mailed to me at 115 Bond St.

Sincerely yours,
FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGNS IN ONTARIO CENTRES

Dr. Shmarya Levin, Hebrew writer and Zionist leader; Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik, executive director of the Zionist Organization of Canada, and Rabbi S. Sachs, of Toronto, were guests of honour at the inauguration of the United Palestine Appeal in several centres of Ontario during the past week. Sunday, April 22, they were in Windsor at a luncheon at the Prince Edward Hotel and a mass meeting in the evening at the Talmud Torah. J. A. Glanz presided and introduced them. About $4,000 was contributed. D. Miretsky and Louis Caplan were appointed to interview those who had not yet been canvassed. Monday, Dr. Levin visited Brantford, where Zionists are headed by M. Nusbaum; Rabbi Sachs visited Kitchener. Both Brantford and Kitchener contributed $1,500 each. In Hamilton the United Palestine Appeal was launched on Tuesday. Dr. Levin, Rabbi Zlotnik and Rabbi Sachs were guests of honour at luncheon in the Royal Connaught Hotel. At a dinner and a mass meeting in the evening over $5,000 was subscribed immediately. George Ringel and Max Epstein were at the head of the campaign committee. Rabbi Zlotnik visited St. Catharines where for the last few years no Zionist campaigns have been held. He was the guest of R. J. Hoffman. Over $600 was subscribed. In London both the Jewish and non-Jewish community heard Dr. Levin Wednesday. He was guest of honour of the Canadian Club, which gave a luncheon for him at the Hotel London. Dr. Levin, speaking in English, gave a comprehensive outline of the significance of the relation of the League of Nations to the Palestine Mandate, pointing out also that it was to the mutual benefit of the British nation and of Palestine to preserve the present relations between them. In the evening Dr. Levin, Rabbi Zlotnik and Rabbi Sachs inaugurated the campaign at a banquet at which M. Lerner presided. Over $2,000 was subscribed at the banquet. The committee in charge of arrangements for the campaign was headed by I. Goldstick, S. C. Harris and M. Mann. The tour of the Central Division was ended with the opening of the campaign in Kingston Thursday, where Dr. Shmarya Levin and Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Abramsky and Mr. and Mrs. J. Cohen. At a mass meeting $2,000 was subscribed to the United Palestine Appeal. Dr. Levin and Rabbi Zlotnik left Monday evening for the west, where they are visiting the following cities on behalf of the United Palestine Appeal: Fort William, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Calgary, Regina, Vancouver and Victoria. Rabbi Zlotnik will also inaugurate the campaign in the following centres: Portage la Prairie, Vegreville, Moose Jaw, Melville, Kamsack and Yorkton.

"Speaking of legs—"

There is a whole row of well shaped legs — artificial, of course—on which stockings are shaped and dried to prevent any possibility of shrinking or tearing. This is but one of many modern features found in this greatest of all Toronto family wash laundries. Five different kinds of wash service provide a splendid range of choice at very moderate prices. Each wash done separately in soft water and pure soap, without marking or starching. Phone to-day.

CHAUVE SOURIS AT ROYAL ALEXANDRA

Balieff's Chauve-Souris, that incomparably unique jumble of almost every conceivable form of diversified entertainment, comes again to the Alexandra Theatre, May 7, for one week. Balieff is returning from his first visit to the Pacific Coast where he and his colourful show were a riotous sensation, San Francisco proving particularly susceptible to the charms of Chauve-Souris.

The Russian troupers are to be seen here once more under the management of F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest, the New York managers who gave this country the superb production of "The Miracle." It was Gest who, on one of his many pilgrimages to Europe, discovered the rotund Balieff doing his stuff in Paris and immediately conceived the idea of bringing him to America. The rest is theatrical history. Gest has had Balieff under his managerial wing, on his visits here, ever since and it was while the New York manager was presenting "The Miracle" on tour last season, that he arranged this transcontinental jaunt for Chauve-Souris. It has been sort of a hasty gallop for the versatile Russians—three weeks in San Francisco, four in Los Angeles, San Diego, Santa Barbara, Salt Lake, Denver, Kansas City and then east to Montreal and back to Paris for Balieff's annual appearance there.

With a fund of capital material acquired during the twenty years he has been presenting his unique form of entertainment, Balieff has promised to dig deeply into his bag of tricks and unfold a varied and particularly appealing programme during the local engagement. Of course, he will do the "March of the Wooden Soldiers" as there is always an insistent demand for this one sparkling feature of Chauve-Souris. There will be eighteen additional numbers varying in emotional range from burlesque to tragedy and embracing farce, extravaganza, opera and ballet, with the genial Balieff bobbing in and out with his humorous announcements of the acts to follow.

The programme includes "Porcelaine de Saxe," "The Pastrycook's Wife," "Songs of Sentiment," "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," "Souvenirs of the Far Past," "La Grande Opera Italiana," "Love in the Ranks," "Romanesque," "A Night at Yards, Moscow, 1840," "Katinka," "The Songs of the Black Hussars," "Love Waxes," "Russian Folk Songs," "Surgery," "Grotesque Espagnal," "Where is our Meyer, Where's Himalaya," "Porcelaine de Copenhagen," "The Chorus of the Brothers Zaitzeff."

Jakob Wassermann, noted German novelist, is author of "America, Hope and Danger," a series of studies on the United States, which the great German novelist, just returned from a prolonged visit to America, is publishing in the weekly Berlin "Illustrerte Zeitung." "During my sojourn," says Wassermann, "I never met a grumbling, sour-faced person and rarely an ill-humoured one." He doubts whether Americans are yet a people at all. He notes social snobbery in the seeking after distinguished ancestors. "The Mayflower," he observes, "must have been a 60,000-ton transatlantic liner if it carried all those people whom contemporary Americans claim as ancestors." Herr Wassermann predicts that the Jews will ultimately be absorbed in America, but that negroes will remain a foreign race.

delirium he was only concerned with the camp, which he had personally supervised for years, and which will be handicapped because of his absence. The Jewish community appreciates the work of M. M. Cohen, and it can demonstrate that appreciation best by continuing the work he has so nobly begun.

LARGE RALLY MARKS DRIVE FOR ZIONIST FUND

Hundreds of people were turned away from the Standard Theatre Sunday night at the meeting of the Palestine Fund campaign, standing room only being available long before the meeting was opened by the chairman, Harry S. Rosenburg. The speaker, Dr. Schmarya Levin, of Palestine, is a member of the World Zionist Executive in London, England. His address dealt with the life of the Jewish people and the upbuilding of Palestine under the British Government's administration of the Balfour Declaration. Dr. Levin told his audience that any nation which built itself a home under the protection of England could become one of the great nations of the world. He emphasized the fact that England is just to the peoples under her protection. The meeting opened with two tableaux, one depicting different periods in Jewish life and the second showing famous personages in Jewish history. The figures of the campaign were not announced, but a statement will be given out in the REVIEW soon. The tableaux were written and directed by Mrs. J. Wechsler, assisted by Mrs. William Palca. PALESTINE CITIZENS ABROAD

The attitude of the British Government with regard to Palestine citizens living abroad in refusing them the protection of the British Consulates was upheld by the Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations and also approved by the Council of the League of Nations. Several thousand Arabs, born in Palestine and holding Ottoman citizenship, who are now living in Honduras, Salvador and Mexico, complained to the League of Nations that the Palestine Government refused to recognize them as Palestinian citizens on the ground that they have been absent for ten years from the country, although they were born in Palestine and never relinquished their Ottoman citizenship, and some of them own property in Palestine. The British Government, in reply to the petition, said that it desires to limit Palestinian citizenship to persons who are actually identified with Palestine as residents and that it does not wish to have large numbers of persons living abroad, holding Palestinian citizenship and enjoying the protection of the British Consulates.

Because they gave false information to the authorities when they made their application for citizenship, Lord Plumber revoked the Palestine citizenship certificates of Saul Berlinsky and Max Aronovitch. This is the first time that Palestinian citizenship has been revoked.
